

Using LexisNexis – News Sources

1. From the library homepage at www.chaffey.edu/library, click on the link labeled AGent.

2. In the login box, type in your seven-digit Chaffey ID number in the first box, and your birth date in the second box using the format: two numbers for the month, two of the day, and the last two numbers of the year, no spaces or dashes in between the numbers. Then click on the My Account Login button.

Newspapers

3. Click on the Newspapers link in the gray area at the top of the page. LexisNexis is the third database listed in this section. Click to open the database.

4. At the top of the page, there are tabs for the different types of resources that can be searched in Lexis Nexis.

- News- newspaper articles, news wires
- Legal- information on court cases, legal journals, federal and states codes and regulations
- Business- information on companies
- People- biographical information on people

Enter a question, a sentence, or a few descriptive terms. Use quotation marks for an exact phrase. Do not use wildcard characters such as ! or *.

5. Type in search terms in the top box.

6. The areas below the Search Terms box are limits that can be placed on a search and these will vary, depending on the resource chosen. For instance in the News search, limits can be placed by Industry, Subject, and Region. This is one of our largest databases, so using these limits can really improve the quality of search results.

7. Other limits might also include specific publications and date.

8. Click the red Search button in the upper right of the screen.

10. On the left side of the results page, there is a pull-down menu that can be used to sort the results such as by publication or subject. If you have a large set of results, this is a useful tool for sorting articles into smaller areas.
