Did you know that it takes about 5½ years on average for students to complete an AA degree? According to the Department of Education, only 18% of first-time/full-time degree-seeking students complete an AA degree in three years. Accelerated Learning has been identified as one of the most promising ways that colleges can help students complete their college goals in a timely manner.

Chaffey College will be offering over 130 accelerated courses next year in order to address the need for our students to complete course sequences and degree requirements more quickly. Come learn about how accelerated learning will be implemented at Chaffey and learn from faculty currently teaching in this format.
