Have you ever been dissatisfied with the learning that happens in your classroom? If so, join us and learn how to harness the socio-cognitive power of reading by incorporating Reading Apprenticeship theories into your classroom. This workshop will introduce you to a new reading strategy that you can use right away to help students get more out of their texts. This strategy will build your students' confidence to realize their potential to learn on their own. We will also talk about ways to apply the Reading Apprenticeship theory in your instruction effectively.
