Do you want to engage your students in a collaborative learning environment that promotes persistence and goal-orientation from the start of your class? Do you want to find ways to infuse goal-setting, resilience, and growth-mindset in your assignments and feedback? The principles of hope and mindset have already been integrated throughout our institutional SLOs and strategic plan, and now it’s time to integrate them more deeply in our instruction. In this seminar, we will actively learn and collaborate on ways to infuse hope and mindset in the syllabus, first week activities, assignments, and feedback in practical ways. Participants will leave with some new ideas and strategies ready to incorporate in their classes.
