LUNAR AND SOLAR

New Year Across Cultures

Lunar New Year is particularly celebrated in East Asia, influenced by the Chinese New Year and the Chinese Calendar. It is also a feature of the Hindu-Buddhist calendars of South and Southeast Asia, the Islamic calendar and the Jewish calendar.

There are numerous days throughout the year celebrated as New Year's Day in the different regions of East Asia, South Asia, and Southeast Asia. Observance is determined by whether the lunar calendar is being followed or the solar calendar.

These celebrations are typically multi-day intergenerational family gatherings that last well into the night with religious and cultural traditions. These celebrations typically include heavy preparation and involvement of all family members, preparing food, offerings, and altars. Being mindful of these community-based celebrations that may be occurring over the spring months can help benefit an individual's mental/emotional well-being as well as their sense of belonging on Chaffey campus.

The next page showcases a (non-exhaustive) list of cultures and new years celebration dates that you may not be familiar with, and that our students, faculty, and staff might be participating in.

Academic Senate – Statement on AB-928 Implementation – February 1, 2022

We, the Academic Senate of Chaffey College, are supportive of the recent legislation to establish a singular transfer GE pattern and commend the equity-driven goal of AB-928 to keep the required unit count consistent with current IGETC pattern requirements, so as not to increase time-to-completion for our students.

First, we request that the CSUs and UCs commit to accepting this GE pattern in its entirety for all transfer students, regardless of whether a student has completed an Associate Degree for Transfer.

Furthermore, because degree completion substantially impacts the earnings potential of our students, it is imperative that students experience general education curriculum that is relevant to their career trajectory in developing transferable employability skills.

To this end, we strongly recommend that the singular transfer GE pattern closely reflect the CSU GE pattern philosophy, which includes courses that emphasize theories and concepts as well as courses that integrate contextual understanding of disciplines with relevant skill development and application (e.g., Arts and Humanities).

At a time where the benefits of higher education are being questioned by many, which has also contributed to plummeting higher education enrollment numbers, we the Academic Senate of Chaffey College believe the abovementioned recommendations will be most beneficial in preparing students, not only for transfer, but to successfully enter the workforce.
