This year’s Faculty Summer Institute focuses on the idea of identifying, implementing, and transferring skills from the classroom to the real world. Participants will discuss pathways that connect education and employment, moving students from “college ready” [prepared for postsecondary academics] to “career ready” [possessing the knowledge and skills most valued, and needed, by employers]. In particular, participants will develop and share strategies that engage students in a variety of skills needed inside and outside of the classroom, such as critical thinking, problem solving, collaborating, self-direction, global understanding, effective communication, digital literacy, adaptability, persistence, and productive habits of mind.
